Facilities Building Maintenance Technician Diploma Program (3~Semesters)

This program offers textbook theory and hands-on practical training as well. It is designed for trades people who are interested in general building and facilities maintenance systems. Rising fuel prices and the need to conserve energy have created a concern for the cost efficient operation of systems. It has also created a growing concern for the cost efficient operation of all systems. It has also created a demand for skilled technicians to service, install and design various types of systems and day-to-day building maintenance.
